KS2 enjoying Watersports

The children have had another fantastic week. Yesterday we invited Allison from Windermere library into school to kick start the exciting 'Summer Reading Challenge'.

We can't wait to hear how the children get on!

Reading is at the heart of everything we do at Saint Cuthbert's. Many of our children regularly receive weekly Headteachers awards for reading 5 or more times in a week. Keep it up children!

We also attended mass on Thursday for St. Peter & Paul day. We're so lucky having church so close to us & we're always very proud of how our children conduct themselves in mass.

All children visited the library on Tuesday to view the 'Buried Treasure' exhibition. Massive thanks to the Lake District Holocaust Project for letting us be part of this amazing historical project, which includes lots of our own work! If you're passing the library, you should call in. We were also honoured to meet Faye, the grand daughter of one of the original Windermere boys. A few years ago our children wrote letters to Alfred Huberman, who was astounded by the generosity of the Windermere community.

The Trailblazers spent Monday at the Armit museum in Ambleside. They had a great session writing nature journals and exploring the natural world. They have a follow up session next week, which will be great too!

KS2 also enjoyed their penultimate water sports session on Windermere. Each week all the children have grown in confidence around the water and have learnt important skills about keeping safe whilst near water, which is a vital skill when you live in the Lakes!

Next week is super busy: A group of KS2 are joining many other local school children at the climate summit at QKS. The children will share everything we do at school to help the planet. Our Laudato Si group meet weekly and are always coming up with new ways to save energy and recycle.

On Monday, all children can come to school wearing green for our 'Green Heart Day'. On this day the children think about being green and make pledges to help the planet. I'm looking forward to hearing some of the ideas they have.

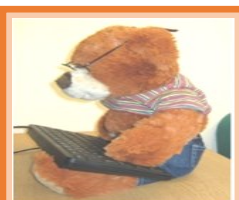

The Mini Police are visiting Windermere Library gardens on Wednesday to plant up the big wooden planters and also complete a litter pick.

I hope you have a lovely week. Thank you as always for your support.
